are still slow coming in, but complete unofficial reports from nearly all the countles show that the estimates that have been made all along were close to the correct figures. That the official figures will show the Republican plur-ality for the head of the ticket to be about the same as that of two years ago, 13,000, there is little doubt. There is also no doubt that the vote for Atkinson will be in excess of that for the national ticket. In several counties Watts was badly scratched, notably in Lewis and Braxton countles. In the former county he ran 124 behind his ticket and in the latter 175. It will be several days before the complete official returns are in. Until the returns are all in officially the majorities received by the four Re publican candidates for Congress cannot be given correctly, but they will not vary much from the estimates heretofore published. Captain Dovener's majority will be over 4,600,doubt-less; Dayton's will be more than 2,000, while those of Dorr and Miller will be about 2,600 each. The legislature stands about as given yesterday, the senate almost unanimously and a two-thirds majority in the house. Va., Nov. 6.-Ka-nawha still claims the position won two years ago of being the banner Republican county in the state, Her county committee did noble work despite ty committee du noble work despite treason in the party ranks and unusual efforts by would-be Democratic leaders to reduce the majority to about that of four years ago. Probably the bardest worked man on the committee was its secretary, E. E. Hood. He was untiring in his labors and did his full share toward bringing about the hanny share toward bringing about the happy result. It is stated that he will be a candidate for clerk of the house of del-sgates, and if elected Kanawha Re-

Kanawha county official gives the following majorities;
McKinley £,174; Dorr 2,058; Atkinson 2,022; La Folletie 2,059; McWhorter 2,019; Kendall 2,073; Trotter 2,005; Rucker 2,062; Pierson, state senate, 2,059; Guthrie, circuit judge, 2,055.
On the county ticket Frank C. Burdette, for prosecuting attorney, leads with 2,124; E. A. Woodall, for county commissioner, against whom the Independent Republican fight was chiefly made, has 554. Every district in the county, except Union, elects Republican district officials.

For Bryan.

Tennessee and Virginia Carried that Way
For Hryan.

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—Mark A. Hanna, chairman of the Republican national committee, was kept busy all day receiving visitors and replying to letters and telegrams of congratulation.
Just before noon, District Attorney John R. Fellows called and was ushered into Mr. Hanna's room, where he remained for some time.

"The object of my visit to Mr. Hanna," said Colonel Fellows before leaving headquarters, "was to request him to look into the frauds perpetrated in the Memphis congressional district on Tuesday. There is absolutely no doubt that Harrison, the present representative and nominee of the Republican and sold standard Democrats was elected, but he was counted out in the most outrageous manner. I thought best to call Mr. Hanna's attention to this matter, while the subject of honest elecions is still fresh in the mind."

Appended is an abstract from a letter received to-day by Colonel Scott, of the Republican National Committee, from James D. Brady, Secretary of the Virginia Republican Campaign Committee:

"Without a doubt we carried Virginia
th ve 2000 materity and elected search

t by 20,000 majority and elected seven of the ten congressmen, but we have been swindled out of it by the most infamous frauds ever perpetrated in the history of southern fraudulent elections. With all of these admitted and glaring frauds, Bryan's returned majority will be about 10,000 in the state and remember we started the fight with over 50,000 to overcome."

BUSINESS OUTLOOK.

The Result of the Election Lifted a Great Weight-Dnu's Review. NEW YORK, Nov. 6.-R. G. Dun &

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—R. G. Dun & Company's weekly review of trade, which issues to-morrow will say:

A great revolution has been effected this week in the conditions which control business. It could not be in any fair degree reflected as yet in transactions or in records, but there is ample evidence already that a crushing weight has been lifted and rolled away and the business world has begun to adjust itself to a state of freedom and security which it has not known for years.

security which it has not known for years.

It was not strictly logical that wheat advanced five cents, reaching eighty-two for November and eighty-five for December and heavy realizing of profits showed perception of the fact. Western receipts were only 6,637,159 bushels against 8,019,910 last year and Atlantic exports, flour included, were only 1,558,353, against 1,599,333 last year. A growing disposition appears among farmers to hold wheat for better prices than are now realized, although at present any advance checks buying for export. Speculation in cotton was also excited on the theory that mills would not start up as many have done and would meet a large demand for goods. But the advance was met by realizing sales and a slight reaction. It will be all the better for business if bright hopes do not holst prices too fast.

The election immediately stiffened prices of pig Iron which reached $12$ at Phitsburgh for Bessemer and the certainty that many large orders for

The election immediately stiffened prices of pig iron which reached $12 at Pittsburgh for Beszemer and the certainty that many large orders for buildings and bridges and other finished for many large orders for buildings and bridges and other finished forms would now become operative Justifies some advance. The future of this trade now depends upon the extent of increase in demand for finished products of fron and steel, which is likely to be materially affected by the course pursued by various combinations. The billet pool, which is still openly undersold at Pittsburgh and has caused no end of disturbance in business by favoring one class of producers to the detriment of another, has been in session here and is said to have changed its basis of allotment so as to secure fairer results. The nall combination is now threatened with a hostile league of jobbers and producers, especially are undersold. The bar combination, notwithstanding its large rebate, is still demanding more than the prices at which steel bars are sold in great quantity. A slight advance in sheetings and print cloths is the only change which yet appears in the market for cotton goods. Practically no change has yet appeared in woolens, but the reported purchases of wool, including one of 11,000,000 pounds of territory, said to have been made by a syndicate amounted to 18,551,000 pounds, against 5,621,350 last year, and $215,000 in 1822. The average of prices rose about $\frac{1}{2}$ to 21,202 cants, or 6.3 per cent. Failures for the week have been 230 in the United States, against 230 last year and fifty-two in Canada, against forty-nine yast year.

PATHETIC SCENES

When Mrs. Castle was Sentenced to Prison in London.

THE WEALTHY CALIFORNIA LADY

Pleads Gullty, but No Question About Her Mind Being Unbalanced-Her Husband Released-Affecting Scene in the Court Room and at the Prison Hospital-Experts who Believe the Court was too Severe on Her.

LONDON, Nov. 6.-The trial of Mr. and Mrs. Walter H. Castle, of San Francisco, charged with shop lifting, took place in the sessions house at Clerkenwell to-day and resulted in Mr. Castle being acquitted and Mrs. Castle sentenced to three months' imprisonment without hard labor.

There was much interest taken in the case, especially among the members of the American colony, and several la-dies arrived in court togetther at 9:45 the American colony, and several ladies arrived in court together at 9:15 a. m. They included among their number the wife of Chairman McConnell, of the Clerkenwell sessions, and a Miss Chapman, of Kentucky.

Mrs. Castle, when she came into the court room with the prison attendants and professional nurse who had her in charge, was given a seat in the dock. Soon afterwards Messrs. Lowis and Williamson, colicitors for the treasury, arrived and a few minutes later the magistrates filed in. Among the late arrivals was Mr. E. P. Clarke, a son of Sir Edward Clarke, Q. C., ex-solicitor general, who had been engaged as additional counsel in behalf of Mrs. Castle. At 16:30 a. m. the court was opened with the names of the Castles being called by the clerk of the court to surrender their ball of $150,000. Then counsel for the prisoners, was not present. The decorous quiet of the court room was broken by the sound of hysterical sobbling of Mrs. Castle, whose husband supported her in the dock. Both prisoners were attired in black and seemed to be weighted down with sorrow. Traces of deep sufferings were visible on their faces. Mrs. Castle especially appeared to have aged considerably since her arrest a month ago at the Hotel Ceell on the charge of having stolen various articles, such as furs, etc., from different stores in this city.

When Mrs. Castle had become somewhat more composed the bustness of the day was resumed. Mr. Castle stood upcaimly as the clerk of the court, in monotonous tone, read the indictment and called upon the male prisoner to plead. "Not guilty," answered Mr. Castle in a strong volce as a flush passed across his face, only to leave him paler than ever.

is face, only to leave him paler than his face, only to leave him paler than ever.

Airs, Castle was then called upon to plead, but Mr. Clarke arose and said that his client, Mrs. Castle, would plead guilty to all the indictments, which were then read separately, Mr. Castle pleading at the same time not guilty to each separate charge. The scene was a distressing one. The sobs of Mrs. Castle were heartrending, in spite of the efforts made by her husband to soothe her distress. She was heavily veiled and rocked to and fro, moaning and hysterically sobbing. She kept a handkerchief to her face throughout, concealing her features from the inquisitive, searching glances of the newspaper artists and others present in court to illustrate her or describe the proceedings.

The Trial.

After the wearlsome work of reading

The Trial.

After the wearlsome work of reading the indictment had been completed. Horace E. Avory opened the case for the prosecution. He said he appeared in behalf of the public prosecution. He said that, after careful consideration, unless his lordship expressed a view to the contrary, there appeared to be no evidence against the male defendant. Mr. Clarke suggested that Mrs. Castle should be removed from the court room during counsels' plea for her husband, as the presence would only add to her distress. Accordingly Mrs. Castle was removed, sobbling piteously. Sir Frank Lockwood then turned to Mr. Castle and said: "You may leave the dock, Mr. Castle."

The prisoner, however, apparently did not hear counsel's remark, for the latter had to repeat, eaying:
"Come out of there, Mr. Castle."

It was exactly 10:55 a. m. when Mr. At 1:55 p. m. thanks to the attentions After the wearlsome work of reading the indictment had been completed, not hear counsel's remark, for the latter had to repeat, eaying:

"Come out of there, Mr. Castle."

It was exactly 10:45 a. m. when Mr. Castle stepped out of the dock and ewas informed that if he so desired he could go down and see his wife. But Mr. Castle preferred to take up a position beside counsels' bench, whereupon Sir Frank Lockwood continued, saying:

"I must touch upon the position occupied by the wife."

Counsel described the European tour of the Castles from the time of their leaving San Francisco and said that the court room to-day was crowded with men of high commercial positions who were ready to testify to the Castles, integrity.

were ready to testify to the Castles, integrity.

Later Mr. Avory, for the prosecution, recounted the case as it presented itself against Mrs. Castle, and in so doing he rehearsed the general statement as it was made at the Mariborough street police court. He described the articles stolen and gave the details of the arrest, not omitting what Mrs. Castle aid to the officer who arrested her.

Mr. Castle at this stage of the proceedings descended the little from staircase to the cells in order to comfort his wife. At about the same time Mr. Hodsop, the representative of the United States embassy, entered the court room in order to watch the case for the sop, the representative of the united states embassy, entered the court room in order to watch the case for the United States representatives here.

Contining, Mr. Avory described the articles found in the rooms of the Castless at the Hotel Ceel as being "a perfect museum of valuable things," and laid stress on the fact that many articles had upon them their original tleket marks, adding:
"It is not unreasonable to assert on this fact, that while many of the things were bought during the European tour, there is intrinsle evidence that other things were stolen from time to time. The police have evidence that one fur article was stolen in Vienna. I am also were bought during the there is intrinsic evidence that other things were stolen from time to time. The police have evidence that one fur article was stolen in Vienna. I am also impelled to say that, while she (Mrs. Castle) was going about doing these thefts, in not a single instance was she detected in the act, which also could not notice it, so skillfully were the thefts made."

Mr. Clarke, for Mrs. Castle, sald:

"I do not complain of the prosecution's statement. If the law in this country stood as it did up to 1888; I should have advised her to plead not guilty. But the extra act passed in 1889.

should have advised her to plead not guilty. But the extra act passed in 1832 provides that if I can satisfy the jury that she was not responsible, then the jury is bound to convict. Therefore I advised her to plead guilty. "The facts which the prosecution has recited suggest that there must be something extraordinary to account for them. In five or six days this lady, who had no possible temptation, goes about

London and takes articles under no pressure of need. When arrested she had plenty of money.

Didn't Need Money.

"Your lordship must have noticed the testimonials to the Castles' character, and how instantly this vast amount of ball was found. A man or a woman in such circumstances did not need more money and did not need to steal in order to get it. Suddenly this lady takes to these practices of taking things and packing them away. The insanity of these proceedings is proved clearly by her handing to one tradesman a fur with a private mark upon it. Insanity is further proved by her taking the toast racks, etc., of the Hotel Cecil.

"Clearly, then, some explanation is required of these extra circumstances, and we are prepared to call medical witnesses, for, of course, such matters are not fit for forensic discussion. The husband did not know that his wife, when fifteen years of age, was obliged to be sent away from her home, owing to troubles incidental to female life at that period. These disorders have since reappeared."

Mr. Castle, who had re-entered the court room as Mr. Clarke began, listened with flushed face to counsel's plea for Mrs. Castle.

Dr. William Chapman Grigs, a specialist in diseases of women and a leading physician of Queen Charlotte's lying in hospital, having thirty years' experience, testified that after repeated examinations of Mrs. Castle he had formed the opinion that the disease from which she was suffering was one of those which are almost always accompanied by great mental disturbances, causing different manias, as kleptomania, religious mania, etc., in different women. testimonials to the Castles' character, and how instantly this vast amount of

A Pitiful Scene.

Dr. George Henry Savage, senior physician at Bethlehem hospital and lec-turer on womens diseases at Guys Hossician at Bethlehem hospital and lecturer on womens diseases at Guys Hospital, who has for thirty years devoted himself tothestudy of women's diseases, endorsed every word of Dr. Griggs' testimony, and Dr. Leonard Gabriel, a member of the Royal College of Surgeons, gave similar evidence. He said that imprisonment to a woman in the condition of Mrs. Castle would have the most serious effect, it would not endanger her life, but it would certainly endanger ber sanity.

Dr. Scott, the Medical Officer of Holloway jail, gave evidence of similar tenor, which, perhaps, was the strongest of all, on account of his position.

Sir Edward Clark said that no one could say at what moment a disordered and unhinged mind might give way utterly. Thereupon at 1145, the magistrates, who numbered 25, besides the Presiding Judge and Colonel Rotten, Gen. Birch, Mr. Davis, Sir John Micks, and the Deputy Jugge, Mr. Loveland retired.

At 12:01 p. m. the magistrates returned, and silence once more fell upon the court. Mrs. Castle was again brought up from the cells with difficulty, sosbing violently. She singgered to the front of the dock and touched the rail, while the clerk of the court read the in-court. Mrs. Castle was again brought up from the cells with difficulty, sobbing violently. She staggered to the front of the dock and touched the rail, while the clerk of the court read the indictment to which she had pleaded guilty. The unfortunate woman then sank exhausted upon the chair placed in the dock for her accommodation.

The judge then summed up. He said that the court had great trouble in dealing with this difficult case, in which sympathy was almost interfering with justice, and knowing that whateverentence he might pass would be carefully reviewed elsewhere, so that any danger to the prisoner's mental health would be carefully guarded against.

The judge then passed sentence of three mounts imprisonment without hard labor upon Mrs. Castle. He added that he did so with the knowledge that the sentence would be revised elsewhere and the general impression which afterwards prevailed in court was that this means that the home office will shortly release Mrs. Castle on her own recognizance.

At 1:45 p. m., thanks to the attentions of the physicians who had administered sedatives to her, Mrs. Castle was calmer but tearful, and was able to enter a cab, accompanied by Normal and the chief jailer, and started for Wormwood Scrubbs prison.

In the court room, after Mrs. Castle had been removed, there was quite a commotion and expressions of surpriso and dissatisfaction with the verdict, their silence had been restored, upon the application of Mr. Avory, the court ordered the restitution of the articles found in the possession of Mrs. Castle.

Dr. Scott said he was surprised at the result, in view of the evidence, intimating that he expected a very much lighter sentence. He ndded, however, that the prisoner will be under a doctor's care at Wormwood Scrubbs, and that everything possible will be done for her.

everything possible will be done for her.

As the court room was being cleared the witnesses gathered in groups and eagerly discussed the case.

Mr. F. A. Mergraf, of Mergraf, Simms & Co., furriers of Mortimer street, who had testified to Mrs. Castle having visited his store, after which he missed some furs, which were subsequently identified at the Mariborough street police court with his private mark on, after having been found among her effects, said as the people were leaving the Sessions house:

"I am satisfied the poor woman was of unsound mind, and I fully expected her acquittal."

g the friends of the Castles Among the friends of the Castles who were present in court to-day were Major C. P. Egan, of San Francisco; Col. Hawes, agent of the New York Life Insurance Co.; H. Liebus, of the Northwest Scal Commercial Co.; W. L. Malcolmson, of Fresno, Cal.; J. Joseph, of San Francisco, and Sir George Lampson.

During the trial a copy of the San Pranelsco Warp, containing an article reviling the Castles, was handed by Sir Edward Clarke to Sir Frank Lockwood, with the remark:

"This was sent to-Mr. Margraf by a friend who said: "I am a hurd-headed Scotchman and believe that a thief is a thief, no matter how weathy,"
